District Library Launches Charlie and the Chocolate Factory-Style Competition

North Vancouver — Fifty years ago, in 1964, North Vancouver District Public Library first became a municipal library. In honour of this milestone anniversary, the Library is holding a Find a Golden Library Card Competition. It's a competition in the style of the one held in the children's classic, Charlie and the Chocolate Factory, a book that is also celebrating a 50th anniversary this year.

The contest opens today and runs until September 27, 2014. 50 special golden library cards will be hidden throughout the Library's three branches: Lynn Valley Library, Capilano Library and Parkgate Library.

Those who find a golden card get to keep it and use it as their own special library card. Plus card finders are entered to win prizes donated by London Drugs, Black Bond Books, Delany's Coffee and Kidsbooks. Prize winners will be announced Saturday, September 27.
