

WHY WOULD
I CARE?

The hunter waited patiently for his prey to approach

Jumped with all his might

And caught him in mid-step

He tied him to the tree and left him hopeless

The lion watched with a grin on his face

Why would I care?

As long as I am safe and happy

business

The hippo laid in the African Savanah just minding his own

The trap was right in front of him, waiting for him

And there he goes, fighting for his life

Suffering from the sharp trap that had cut into his bones

The lion watched with a grin on his face

Why would I care?

As long as I'm safe and happy

The net was dangling from the tree

Waiting for the right time to strike!

His sole has left the earth

And there he goes tangled up unaware of the danger

The lion watched with a grin on his face

Why would I care?

As long as I'm safe and happy

And then one day

The lion was shouting for HELP

He was unaware of his surroundings

"I'm the king of animals I can't be left helpless"

You couldn't hear one sound

In the cold, cold night
